

WINE ENTHUSIAST

91
POINTS

Abacela 2020 Syrah (Umpqua Valley)

Abacela may be known for Tempranillo, but they're not exactly slouches at Syrah. Which may explain how they made a 15.1% abv wine feel relatively light on its feet. The aromas are those of a rich black-cherry muffin with vanilla frosting. The flavors are darker, with tart blackberries joining dark chocolate and almonds.

— M.A. Published 7/1/2024

WINE ENTHUSIAST

91
POINTS

Abacela 2020 Syrah (Umpqua Valley)

Abacela may be known for Tempranillo, but they're not exactly slouches at Syrah. Which may explain how they made a 15.1% abv wine feel relatively light on its feet. The aromas are those of a rich black-cherry muffin with vanilla frosting. The flavors are darker, with tart blackberries joining dark chocolate and almonds.

— M.A. Published 7/1/2024

WINE ENTHUSIAST

91
POINTS

Abacela 2020 Syrah (Umpqua Valley)

Abacela may be known for Tempranillo, but they're not exactly slouches at Syrah. Which may explain how they made a 15.1% abv wine feel relatively light on its feet. The aromas are those of a rich black-cherry muffin with vanilla frosting. The flavors are darker, with tart blackberries joining dark chocolate and almonds.

— M.A. Published 7/1/2024

WINE ENTHUSIAST

91
POINTS

Abacela 2020 Syrah (Umpqua Valley)

Abacela may be known for Tempranillo, but they're not exactly slouches at Syrah. Which may explain how they made a 15.1% abv wine feel relatively light on its feet. The aromas are those of a rich black-cherry muffin with vanilla frosting. The flavors are darker, with tart blackberries joining dark chocolate and almonds.

— M.A. Published 7/1/2024